Come help us celebrate National Freedom of Information Day at USF the evening of March 16. Citizens, journalists, and attorneys will engage in a lively discussion about Florida's famed open government laws and their struggles accessing the records and meetings of our government. During the second half of the program, representatives of various state organizations – the Attorney General's Office, Governor Rick Scott's Office of Open Government, the Brechner Center for Freedom of Information, and the First Amendment Foundation – will provide helpful information and advice, and Ken Bunting, director of the National Freedom of Information Coalition, will talk about the Knight FOI Litigation grant fund, administered by the NFOIC.

Famed Pulitzer Prize winning journalist LUCY MORGAN will kick off the evening as our keynote speaker, and JON KANEY, senior counsel for the First Amendment Foundation, will serve as moderator.

Best of all? It's FREE!

You can pre-register by emailing Katie@floridafaf.org or calling the First Amendment Foundation, 800/337-3518. You'll find directions to the CIS building as well as hotel information below. A campus map is attached.
